

Leghorn, August 31.

Learn from Vill-franca, that there are but two large English Men of War, there; that Admiral Matthews was actually failed with the rest of his Fleet, to his old Post near the Islands of Hieres, where Rear-Admiral Lefloch died lately; that the first-mentioned Admiral had Eighteen Ships of the Line under his Command, exclusive of such as were cruising. A Vessel just arrived here from Toulon informs us, that the joint Fleet of France and Spain was entirely equip'd, and waited only for a fair Wind in order to put to Sea. All our latest Advices from Corsica agree, that new Disturbances have broke out there, the Inhabitants persisting peremptorily on their being exempted for ten Years from all Taxes, and declaring void their last Treaty, unless the Republick will make them this Concession. The Genoese seem to be so little inclin'd to yield to this, that it is thought they will rather attempt to sell the Island, or yield it to some of their Neighbours, who can afford them an Equivalent. A Vessel from Smyrna is just arrived here, the Master of which reports, that the Plague is broke out in that City, and rages with greater Violence than ever.

Journal of Prince Charles's Army.

Hocksteden, September 8. On the 2d of this Month the Prince distributed his Orders for a March, which gave the Troops extraordinary Satisfaction, who declared readily, and with the greatest Alacrity, that they were willing to undertake any Thing which his Royal Highness should conceive to be for her Majesty's Service.

On the 3d the First Line left the Camp of Muntzingen, and advanced within half a League of Old Brisac.

The Night between the 3d and the 4th, Col. Trenck embarked his People in little Boats, and passed over to the Island of Rhinmarck. He was followed by 500 Croats, and those again by six Companies of Grenadiers. He boldly attacked two well fortified Redoubts the Enemy had there, and cut to Pieces the Troops that were in them, except a very few, to whom they gave Quarter. After this Expedition, he marched to the opposite Shore of the Rhine, over against the Continent of Alsace. The French had on the other Side a good Head of a Bridge, well furnished with Artillery, the Risk Fire of which hinder'd the Colonel from going any further.

While all this pass'd, the best Part of the Infantry, and some Squadrons of Horse, were Shipped over also to the Island. The Bridge, at which we were working all the Time these Transports were making, was soon after finished. The Enemy, who had it in their Power to have passed over into the Island, by Means of their Bridge on the lesser Branch of the Rhine, did not think fit to do it; but contented themselves with drawing together the best Part of their Forces on the opposite Shore, and furnishing the Head of their Bridge, and their Redoubts on the Banks of the Rhine with fresh Pieces of Cannon, which they brought from New Brisac, and with which they pried us so warmly, that we found it impossible to do any Thing more that Day.

For this Reason, or perhaps for some other unknown to us, we wrought hard on the 5th, on a strong Reinforcement.

On the 6th we began likewise to raise a Head to our Bridge, which will be well furnished with Artillery, as soon as it shall be finish'd.

We continued to work hard on the 7th, both on our Reinforcement, and the Head of the Bridge. The Enemy continued firing all the Time, as well from Fort Morlis, from all the Redoubts, on our Soldiers and Pioneers. The Batteries that we have on the Eggersberg, in the Neighbourhood of Old Brisac, talk'd to them in the same Language; and, we have Reason to think, to good purpose. How long we are to continue in this Situation we know not, but according to the Dispositions the Royal Highness has made, it is very probable, that we shall soon pass the Rhine, either here, or elsewhere; perhaps, find a Way to get into Alsace without fighting it. For we begin shrewdly to suspect, that the Enemy's Trench that we are employed about in the Island, will all on a sudden, be turned into a Canal, for the lesser Branch of the Rhine running through it, may pass over to Alsace Dry-shod.

However, September 13: We have frequent Expresses from the Army, but we are little the better for them, since the Contents of them are kept absolutely secret. By the Death of Baron Scheulembourg, one of the finest Regiments in our Service is become vacant, and we long extremely to know to whom the King will give it. Mr. Lutich, who formerly officiated as Engineer of the Empire, is entered into his Britannick Majesty's Service in the same Quality.

L O N D O N.

The last Advices from Franckfort say, that the Letters from Basse were not arrived for two Mails together; and that they absolutely know nothing there of the Situation of Prince Charles's Army.

We are assured, that the Prince of Baden-Dourlach is a Prisoner, and wounded. That Prince Esterhazy was wounded in the Leg, and that Numbers of Croats and Pandours, who were thought to be kill'd, or drown'd, return daily to the Army of Prince Charles.

The French are making the best Dispositions they can, in order to hinder the Allies from taking Winter Quarters in the Country of Liege.

Last Wednesday died Mr. Morris, Clerk of the Ironmongers Company; which Place he had many Years.

A Court of Admiralty is to be held at Doctors Commons on Thursday the 6th of October, for the Trial of the two Prizes taken and carried into Lisbon by the Wolf; and for the 130 Pipes of Wine taken out of the Spanish Ship by the Anglesa Man of War and Fly Sloop, and carried into Lisbon; and likewise for the Prize taken by the Monmouth, and brought into Dover.

Yesterday was held a General Court of the Bank of England, when a Dividend of Two 3-4ths was order'd for the half Year due at Michaelmas next; the Warrants to be payable on the 14th of October.

Last Saturday Mr. Holditch, a Druggist in Bishopsgate-street, was married at Abbots-Langley, in Hertfordshire, to Miss Kenrich of Hitchin, Daughter of the late Dr. Kenrich, of that Place; a young Lady of a considerable Fortune.

Last Wednesday Night a Man, by Trade a Braiser, who lived in Church-Lane, Newington, in Surry, having some Words with his Wife, kick'd her so violently on the Belly, that she died to Death. He was secured, and carried before a Magistrate, who committed him to the New Goal, Southwark.

Last Tuesday Eleanor Croker, Servant to Mr. Webster, one of his Majesty's Messengers, was committed to the Gatchouse, Westminster, by Richard Manley, Esq; for smothering two Male Infants, of which she had been just deliver'd, by throwing them into the Vault, no Person being in the House but herself. It was about One o'Clock in the Morning when she committed the Fact, and was discover'd by a Watchman who heard her groan; and she being taken up on Suspicion of being with Child, confest the whole Matter. Yesterday the Coroner's Jury sat on the Body of the Children, and brought in their Verdict Wilful Murder.

Yesterday James Blank and William Wergen were committed to Woodstreet Compter by Sir Edward Bellamy, for feloniously stealing out of the Warehouse of Mr. Leader a Distiller in Cloth Fair, a Quantity of Brandy, Geneva, &c. to the Amount of 100 Gallons.

As was also Thomas Moss to Bridewell, for picking the Pocket of one Mr. John Jenkins of a Handkerchief, as he was going through Aldersgate.

On Monday next, by Desire of divers of the Nobility, the Serenata, call'd Solomon, will be perform'd again at Rushbolt-House, Essex. Tickets as usual; and in the Afternoon will be Singing by Mr. Lowe, and several others. Admittance One Shilling.

New and Easy Method; with their Use and Application, in the Solution of a great Variety of Arithmetical and Geometrical Questions, by General and Universal Rules.

To which is prefix'd, An Introduction containing a succinct History of this Science.

By Mr. NATHANIEL HAMMOND, of the Bank.

Extra'd from the Account of this Book in the Works of the Learned.

"The World has long complained of the Want of a proper Introduction to Algebra. Some are so very concise, as if they were contrived not to teach but introduce a Teacher; others again are larger, but wrote with so little Condensation to the Understandings of such as are altogether unacquainted with the Science, that they are of very little Use to those who are most inclined to make use of them. Whence it comes to pass, that few find it practicable to make any Progress in Algebra without a Master, tho' certainly the Science in itself is far from surpassing a clear Head, and a tolerable Understanding."

"The Design of this Treatise, which is of a reasonable Bulk, and which contains nothing which is not solid, and to the Purpose, is to assist such as are engaged in teaching Algebra with a regular Method, and a large Stock of Examples; so that their Scholars may find Employment in their Absence; and to enable such as live in Country-Places, and must consequently want all other Tutors, except Books, to acquire such a Skill in this Science, as may enable them to spend a Portion of their Time agreeably in the Cultivation of their better Parts, and in rendering a natural Method of enquiring after Truth habitual."

"The Treatise begins with a copious Explication of the Fundamental Principles of the Art, and of the Signs and Method of Notation used therein. The Author then proceeds to the several Rules, explaining them carefully and copiously in all their various Cases; so that with a moderate Attention it is simply impossible for a Person, who desires to be Master of Algebra, to miss of his End."

"We never find this Writer advancing any thing out of its proper Place, or burthening the Mind of his Scholar with Rules, before they become necessary: He professes to have imitated the judicious Euclid in this Respect; and he has done it with equal Art and Felicity. By this means he has delivered the young Student in Algebra from that which is usually the most fatiguing Part of the Science, viz. The Doctrine of Surds, in the Manner in which it is usually taught. By the same Means he leads his Reader directly to Equations; and, by shewing him the Profit he will reap from this Science, encourages him to overcome all its Difficulties. But having thus laid a strong and rational Foundation, he moves more slowly through the rest of his Work, that whoever follows him, may be obliged to become Master of every Branch of the Art, so as to be a complete Algebraist, before he quits his Book, and not a Smatterer."

"Quadratic Equations, and the Art of managing Converging Series, the admirable Invention of the incomparable Newton, are here so clearly explained, and their several Cases so plainly set down, and so thoroughly explicated, that it may be truly said, there are no where else such Instructions to be met with. At the Close of the Book, we find abundance of Observations, necessary for enlightening such Minds as are willing to proceed still farther in analytic Discoveries; so that considering the Compass of this Work, and that too is very moderate, it is as complete as possibly can be expected: And he who is thoroughly versed in it, will find no great Difficulties, when he proceeds to sublimer Studies. The Language is plain and natural, the Book is more copious than any other in Examples, and the Illustrations of them are so full and clear, that it is impossible to mistake their Meaning."
